One Man's Opinion

By CARL BRIGGS

Being socked in the ear with a snowball on a chilly winter morning in Gateway is not my idea of a convivial greeting. For a while, not seeing the culprit, I suspected a poltergeist or other extraterrestrial until I heard humanoid giggling from behind the fender of a nearby Hupmobile Six.

I challenged my assailant in the name of the republic to stand like a gentleman and declare himself and was rather less surprised than pleased to see that it was my friend the little girl.

"Brickbats and beanbags are one thing," I said. "But snowballs are something else. Besides, I think your knuckler had a rock in it."

"I came by to say Merry Christmas, mister," she said, kicking the Hupmobile on the fender. A large clod of ice clunked to the pavement behind the wheel and immediately froze in place.

"I appreciate the spirit of your message more than its method of delivery," I said. "Come in out of the cold before we both solidify."

She came into the office and went to the steamy front window and traced a holly wreath on the glass with her finger. "I came downtown with my Daddy while he buys Christmas presents," she said. "That's him across the street. He's mad at you because you left something out of the paper again. I'm going to get a wrist watch and some skiing lessons. We are going to Grandma's house. And maybe a puppy. Why is he going into the laundry?"

"Your Daddy or the puppy?"

"My Daddy."

"Probably to stick the place up," I muttered.

She was drawing a Christmas tree now, complete with sparkling lights and ornaments and a heap of gifts beneath it. She hummed a few bars of what sounded like obscure Gustave Holtz, then said, "Christmas is a time to be nice."

"You're quite right, child," I said. "We forget about that sometimes, and then Christmas comes along and reminds us."

I was trying to find something meaningful to write for the Christmas issue of the paper, but the words wouldn't fall into place. Thoughts of war and civil violence and totally unnecessary earth-shaking atomic blasts in the desert seemed to block constructive thought and I deemed that even the most confirmed optimist must surely find himself severely tested.

Little girls think about presents, to be sure, and isn't it a blessing that's all they have on their minds? But she was right, and I felt remorse. I turned to express an apology to her but suddenly she was gone, outside, dashing through the snow. I looked at the window and saw that she had scrawled across the bottom of the picture in big letters, "Peace on earth, Merry Christmas from me and Daddy."

I wished I could have preserved it, but even as I watched, drops of water streaked down the glass through the picture and in a short time the message had disappeared forever, and I wondered if all the cards and greetings and gifts really had any more permanence than water on glass.

Good thoughts in our hearts rather than the material things prevail at Christmas and maybe that's why Christmas prevails. We keep trying to define the spirit of the occasion but it's as undefinable as love, and perhaps they are synonymous.

So Merry Christmas and good thoughts to you, my little friend, and to your Daddy and all of our readers.

Early Deadline Again Next Week

Next week's Sierra Sun will be out Monday, December 30. News and advertising deadline for that issue will be Friday noon, December 27.

West Shore Sewering Deadline In Jeopardy

TAHOE CITY — Tahoe City Public Utility District (TCPUD), which has been working against the Jan. 1, 1970, deadline for sewage export, Thursday, moved to withhold award of any further contracts for any sewage export project from Lake Tahoe Basin, pending determination of whether the district qualifies for a federal grant from the Economic Development Administration (EDA) in Washington, D.C.

The move, taken by TCPUD's board of directors, at their regular meeting, means that two awards, totaling $1,144,849 to a Canoga Park firm, Saliba, Jackson Sub-Terra Construction Co., will be held up.

A letter was ordered sent by the TCPUD Board of Supervisors to Congressman Harold (Bizz) Johnson, stating the board's refusal to undertake further export works until the district was eligible for federal help.

The letter points out that TCPUD wants the same monetary advantages given in the form of federal participation to neighboring sewer districts in South Lake Tahoe and Truckee.

This means construction work will be delayed for the export of sewage along the West Shore of Lake Tahoe from Sunnyside to Tahoe City.

Delay of contract awards further hold up work on sewer annexation District No. 5, which would provide collection lines from all of the developments in the area south of Tahoe City on the west shore.

TCPUD directors pointed out a request for redetermination on eligibility for EDA grants were asked for last year and again requested Nov. 19.

They stated that no state or federal official has given any indication of wanting to help the district.

The letter to Johnson which was also sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan, top state officials and representatives, went on to say "the directors are concerned about the high costs of implementing sewage export facilities in the area and feel they are justified in at least waiting the determination of whether the people of Placer County in the Lake Tahoe Basin should be afforded the same monetary advantage that has been given by the government in adjoining districts."

The letter was signed Martin Spitsen, president of the board. William Layton, manager of the district flew to Los Angeles today to meet with representatives of the low bidder for the export line to explain the delay.

Nevada County Drops Charge Against Truckee Pot Suspect

Nevada County Asst. Dist. Atty. Ronald MacMillen was granted a dismissal in the Superior Court narcotics trial of Lelan Everett Hein, 20, of San Francisco.

MacMillen, in his motion for Court Judge Richard Schoenig of Yuba County a 16-year-old witness in the case had lied to investigators, the Nevada County Grand Jury and the jury in court here.

The Grand Jury earlier indicted Hein on suspicion of furnishing and giving away marijuana in the Truckee area. Hein was serving a term at the medical facility in Vacaville for a Butte County narcotics violation when brought to trial here Wednesday.

The prosecutor told the court the witness, a resident of the Soda Springs area, had told "the same story to law enforcement officials, the Grand Jury and the Superior Court jury, 'but on cross examination he revealed that in two significant matters he told a direct lie, either here or previously.'"

MacMillen cited a "loss of faith" in the prosecution's evidence.

Sheriff's officers reported Hein will be returned to Vacaville to continue his term.

Curran Subs For Loehr

Because he was down with the flu, Supervisor H. G. Loehr last week was unable to attend a luncheon reception sponsored by the Nevada County Employees Association, honoring the retiring three supervisors, held at the Broiler in Nevada City.

Loehr's successor, William Curran, who will take over the office next month, represented the veteran official at the luncheon and accepted the plaque presented, commemorating Loehr on his 24 years of service to his community and county.

Other retiring board members honored by the department tal heads were Bret J. Bannalack, chairman, of the Second District and Gene Ricker of the First District.

During the board meeting, it was voted to abandon that portion of old Highway 40 from the Flycasters Club to where it rejoined Interstate 80, a section of road no longer useful. The county road from Truckee to the club property will remain in the system.

The board also voted to accept the tentative map of Prosser Lake Estates, Unit No. 3 as proposed by the county planning commission.

Suit In Brockway Deal

A dispute over a commission in the pending sale of the Brockway Hotel at Lake Tahoe has resulted in a $436,000 suit filed last week in Auburn.

Real estate Broker Donald O. Beck of Tahoe City charges he is being denied $91,000 in brokerage fees and also seeks $345,000 damages from Maryanne Ingemannson, a real estate broker; the Marvin Warner Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, purchasers of the property, and Donald P.

Steinmeyer, a buyer representative.

Beck charged through his lawyer, Richard V. Smith of Auburn, that there was a breach of contract after an agreement had been reached to split the commission.

The Ohio company reportedly plans to build a condominium complex, and the sale of the hotel property is expected to be completed within 30 days.

Okay Given On Lake Hotel

Problems on building the proposed 10-story high-rise hotel at the Cal-Neva Lodge at Crystal Bay reportedly have been resolved at a meeting of Club Cal-Neva Representatives and Washoe County officials.

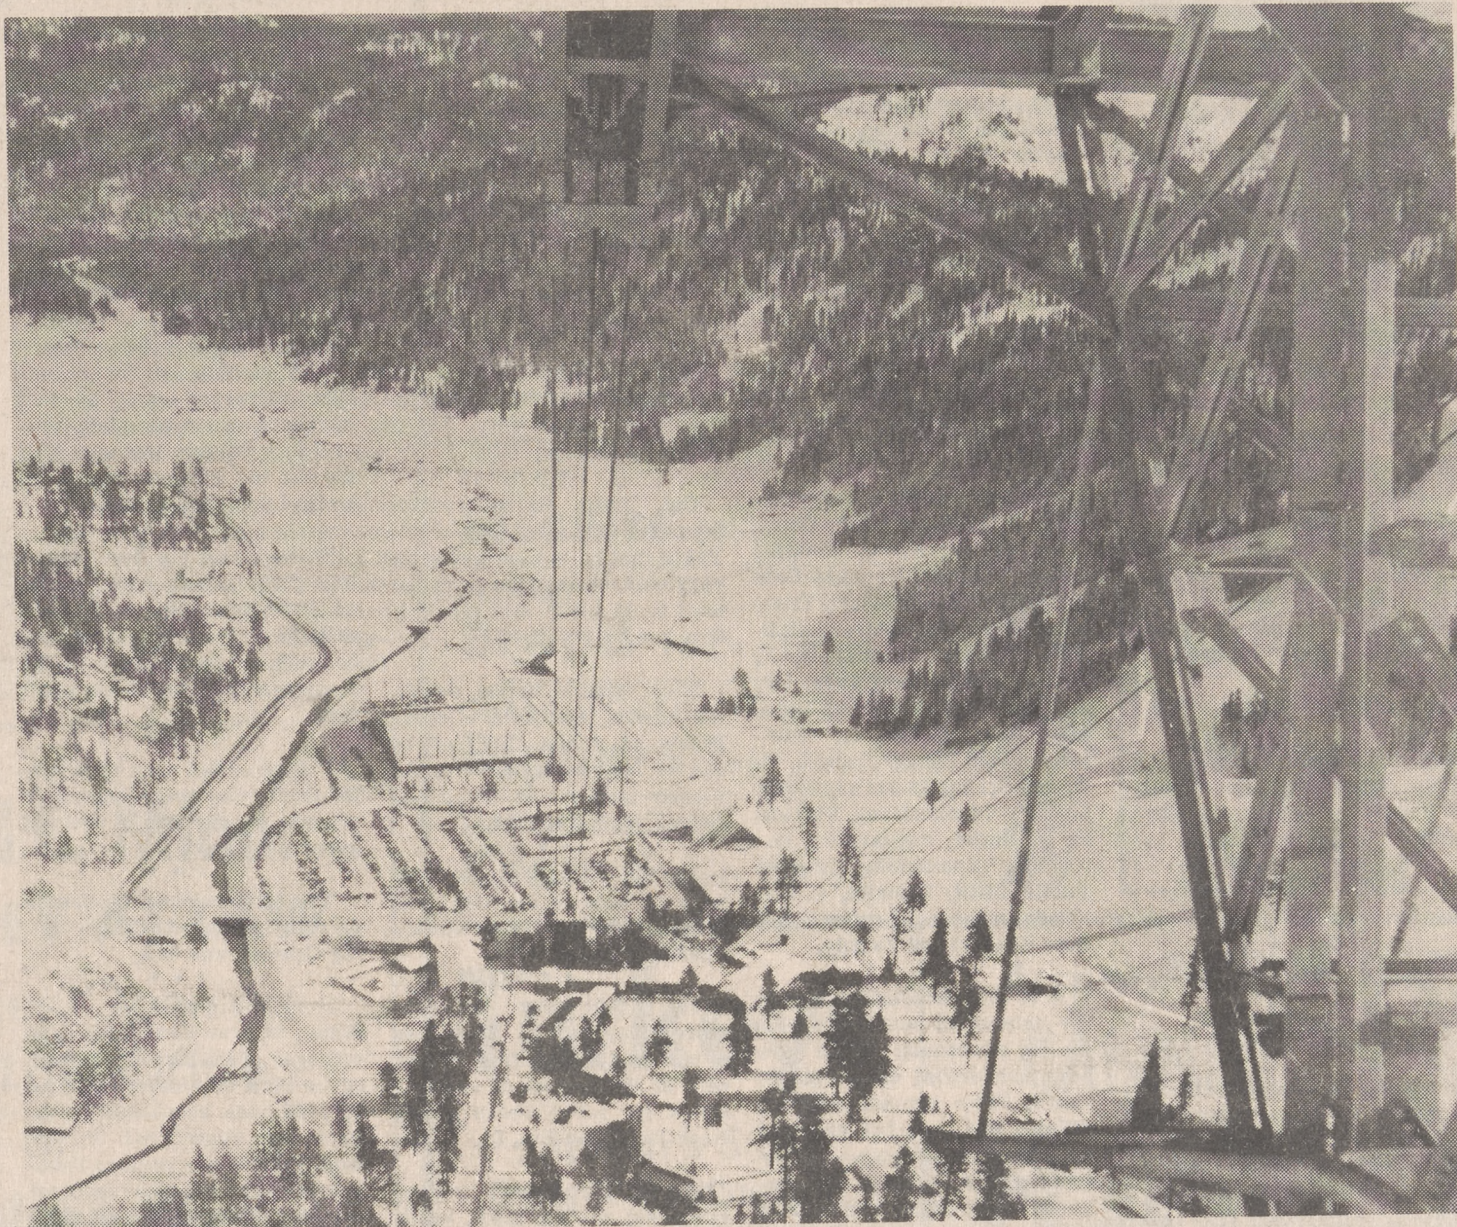

The problems arose when County Building Inspector Ross Stoltz reportedly refused to issue a building permit for construction of the multistory hotel at Lake Tahoe, claiming the structure constituted an addition to the existing Cal-Neva Lodge.

The addition could not be made until the existing building was brought up to existing codes, Stoltz reportedly said.

County Engineer Floyd Vice said the issue — involved an "interpretation of the building code—whether the high-rise is a separate building or an addition to the existing building."

The new hotel will be tied to the existing structure only through a corridor, and will have its own fire wall to prevent fire from spreading to the old structure, or vice versa, the engineer said.

Giant Cars Soar Above Squaw Valley

FROM THE NEW CABLE CAR — A panoramic view of Squaw Valley is seen from the new 120-passenger cable car as it passes a tower high above the valley and plunges downward at 25 miles per hour toward the terminal building and Squaw

Valley Lodge far below; the new tramway opened to the public Friday and will whisk skiers from the valley floor upward 2,000 feet to prime new ski areas; the upper terminal will soon house a lounge and restaurant.

New Tramway Inauguration

BY CARL BRIGGS
Sun Editor

Squaw Valley has been the mountain home of the "biggest" and the "best" for quite a few years and last week another feather was added to the jaunty Tyrolean hat of America's favorite winter resort with the dedication and opening of the huge new tramway called The Cable Car.

With cars the size of buses suspended from overhead cables, each unit capable of carrying 120 people plus an operator, it is the world's largest tramway in passenger capacity and is a complex of automated machinery so beautiful in design and functional in operation as to be rather more an astounding engineering miracle than a simple convenience for skiers.

Wednesday was press day. A sizable gaggle of local newtypes plus citizens of more substantial character and sobriety gathered in the lobby of the terminal building hard by the Lodge in Squaw Valley and, once past a herd of trumpeting elephants in the front yard, listened to maestro Alex Cushing recount the birth pangs of the giant conveyance they had come to see.

Following a comprehensive tour of the premises that included a detailed explanation of the system's safety features — one got the feeling they protested rather extensively — we were invited to climb up inside the building and take a ride.

There was some loose talk of putting one of the elephants in a car and transporting him aloft for the benefit of photographers, and while the photographers seemed willing the elephant chose to exercise discretion and promptly soiled the mezzanine floor in protest.

Once the elephant crisis was resolved, ensuing events progressed smoothly and without further mishap. We rode upon the contraption and were rewarded during the event with what someone described as Paiute Mai-Tai's and a fine luncheon afterward in the Gourmet restaurant at Mr. Cushing's Lodge, all of it on the house and much appreciated, as will be attested by a platoon of highway patrolmen who reported to the chow line even ahead of the press — an intramural struggle between two camps of hardened freeloaders.

All in all, it was a fascinating experience. The cars rise up some 2,000 feet of lift at a rate of 25 miles per hour and there is not so much as a tremor or sway or bobble to indicate the movement. It is difficult to detect motion at all, in fact, until you watch the high cable towers come surging toward you and flash past the window. Then you know you are traveling.

The cars are 28 feet long and were built in Switzerland, as was most of the equipment and machinery that make the thing work. In fact, it took Swiss workmen and technicians to put the whole jumble together properly.

To accommodate 120 people at a time, passengers have to stand and if you are not acquainted with your companion when you enter the car you are bound to be closer friends when you disembark at the top. For the summer trade, seats will be installed, which may or may not be a commentary on the difference between winter skiers and summer tourists.

Rutgers Barclay, the genial public relations chap with the name like a western campus of an eastern university, says you can see five counties from the top terminal at 8,200 feet. It affords a beautiful view of the Sierra Nevada and Lake Tahoe that is well worth the ride whether you are a skier or not, and of course the non-skier gets to admire it going both directions.

The architects of the terminal building, incidentally, were Shepley, Bulfinch, Rich-

New Regional Planning Agency Hold First Formal Meeting

The Tahoe Regional Planning Agency at its first formal meeting last week at Zephyr Cove decided on establishment of a planning commission, adopted a budget, asked the governor to call a meeting of legislators to discuss emergency legislation and funding and took other decisive steps in rapid order.

Without any legal authority as yet, the board nevertheless endorsed policies of the State Health Department prohibiting new commercial construction or subdivisions without sewer connections and a moratorium on piers until the agency is legally operative.

AGENCIES NOTIFIED
The board's secretary was instructed to notify all state agencies that their public works projects should be submitted for review by the NTRPA. Although some state agencies can override NTRPA decisions in Nevada, Elmo DeRicco, chief of the State Department of Natural Resources and Conservation, said he would "question the wisdom" of doing so and does not expect this will be done.

Members agreed a planning commission should be established and will submit names of prospective members at their January meeting. Any technical advisory committee formed later would report to the planning commission instead of the agency.

$50,000 BUDGET

A $50,000 budget for the 1969-70 fiscal year was adopted to finance either the interim existing agency or a bistate one if it is ratified by the Congress. To insure an understanding of the need for this among legislators concerned with Lake Tahoe, Gov. Paul Laxalt will be asked to call a meeting early in January for discussion of the subject.

The agency postponed a meeting with the Washoe Valley Landowners Association to hear objections of sewage effluent export from Incline Village until a report on a distillation program with in-basin disposal is completed.

Placer Freezes Salary

The Placer County Board of Supervisors, which has squabbled with Auditor-Controller Kimbuck Williams over financial matters during the last, voted to freeze his salary at $12,500 a year.

Supervisors unanimously adopted an amendment to an ordinance which keeps Williams' salary at the present level two weeks before he was scheduled to receive a $500-a-year raise.

The board's action yesterday followed a week after Supervisor Chairman Robert Mahan lashed out at the auditor, charging Williams should share the blame for lawsuits against the county, was at odds with constables over the account of fees and "almost destroyed" the purchasing department.

Williams, who was present during the sharp attack, stated he was doing the best job he could according to this conscience.

While Williams' salary remained the same, the supervisors authorized pay increases for some 600 other employees ranging from 5 to 10 per cent. Elected officials were not included.

Beach Arrests On Suspicion

Placer County deputies have arrested three persons on suspicion of possessing narcotics and three others for being present where narcotics were used in a house on Salmon Street in Kings Beach.

Arrested for possession of marijuana were George Caro, 25, and Donna Plumb, 23, residents of the house, and Victor Lyle Draney, 17, also of Kings Beach. Draney was turned over to juvenile authorities and Caro and Miss Plumb were transferred to the Placer County jail in Auburn.

Clyde Dale Holbrook, 18, Carl Forest Brooks, 21, and Michael Harvey Taylor, 20, pleaded innocent yesterday in the Tahoe City Judicial District Court to charges of being present where narcotics were used. Their cases were continued until Tuesday.

Lt. Robert Davis went to the house Monday night on a routine check of a car and said he smelled burning marijuana. Officers said a subsequent search turned up evidence of the drug.

Hospital Ladies Are Selling Toys

Members of the Tahoe Forest Hospital Auxiliary have announced the sale of Christmas toys in their gift shop in the hospital lobby. Mrs. Pat Tonini, chairman of the coffee shop committee, reports a shipment of fine stuffed toys.

The shop is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. during the week, and on Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Coffee and doughnuts are served in the mornings and sandwiches, soup, coffee and milkshakes are available throughout the day.

Lawsuit Filed In Sale Of Historic Meeks Bay Resort

The proposed sale of the Meeks Bay Resort is involved in a $100,000 suit filed in El Dorado County Superior Court by real estate agent Edward Adams of South Lake Tahoe who claims he is due a finder's fee and commission from the deal.

Named as defendants in the action are Charles Heneveld who is identified as an agent of Phillip Sinclair Neill, also a defendant, and three corporations, Alamo Associates, August Associates and the Title Insurance and Trust Co. of Oakland.

Adams claims he was engaged by Heneveld as an intermediary and finder to help secure a listing from George Kehlet and Harry Lawson to place their property, the Meeks Bay Resort, on the real estate market.

Adams said Heneveld agreed to pay him one-half the normal listing fee, plus one-third of any commission secured by Heneveld for the sale of the property.

Adams claims a buyer was secured for the Meeks Bay property and escrow was opened with the Title Insurance and Trust Co. Heneveld should be paid a commission of $200,000, the suit claims.

Adams seeks a judgement of $100,000 as payment for his services in the exchange.

Information available in the El Dorado County assessor's office indicates no sale has yet been concluded on the Meeks Bay property.

Community Christmas Chorus Entertains 300 At High School

A "highly successful" Third Annual Community Christmas Concert last Thursday at Tahoe Truckee High School attracted some 300 persons to hear the combined choruses of all the district's schools in a holiday music program.

The 120-voice group was composed of youngsters from the fifth grades through seniors in high school. The Tahoe Truckee High School Band provided accompaniments for the singing. Singers were effectively dressed in white blouses and skirts and white shirts and slacks while the band was in uniform.

The program consisted in separate numbers by the elementary group and the high school choir as well as the combined numbers. David Smythe of Tahoe Lake and Kings Beach schools was elementary school conductor. Barbara Small conducted the high school choir. Greg Hill of Tahoe Truckee High School sang "Amen" as the only soloist on the program. Other featured music was provided by the snare drum accompaniment of John Olson and a brass ensemble composed of Larry Doyle, Bill Brehler, David Briscoe and George Frances Chini.

The program was concluded by a thrilling climax when the combined band and choruses sang "Joy to the World."

Hal Silva Announces Release Of Small Business Booklet

Although unable to compete with giant retailers in prices, many small independent stores are becoming successful by "creating an image that shopping in their store is almost a form of entertainment."

That's one of the modern retailing trends cited by Small Business Reporter, Hal Silva, Manager of the bank's Truckee Branch, noted.

"The report covers the methods of establishing a store, including financing and choice of location. It also contains a chart showing how cash flows through a retail business and another chart indicating how much a salesperson should sell, based on salary."

The Bank of America periodical points out that retailing is a relatively easy field to enter, but not an easy business to operate.

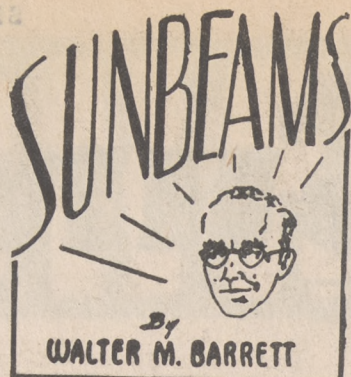

"The retail store failure list testifies to the number of inexperienced, underfinanced and psychologically unprepared amateurs who have blundered into this complex business," the report states.

"However, many retailers have responded to the consumer's increased affluence and sophistication by offering imaginative merchandise in pleasant surroundings. The small independents have been so successful with their new 'boutique' concept that many large retailers are imitating it."

"Small independent merchants who can couple retail merchandising flair with sound business management will continue to innovate, to set trends, to play a creative part in the retailing scene — and to prosper."

Recreational Area Planned

AUBURN — A request for a conditional use permit for Rocky Ridge Properties to build a recreational area on the east side of Lake Park Terrace Subdivision at Tahoe City is on the agenda of the Placer County Planning Commission, meeting at 10 a.m. Friday here at the county administrative center.

It's interesting to scan the Sierra Sun of 30 years ago and note the number of changes which have come about since that time in the business world of the community. These changes are most apparent in the Sun's greeting ads for Dec. 22, 1938,

Just to list a few of the old timers, some of whom are no longer with us and others which have changed management, we found the following: Andy Roquette of the Tourist Cafe; George Pace, plumbing; R. N. McCormack, county clerk; Bank of America, C. B. White, manager; Mottos Ice & Beverage; Joe Mattos; Rotary Oil & Burner; Harold Langille; City Transfer, C. E. and E. H. Smith; Pastime Club and Coffee Shop; R. Joseph; Riverside Hotel, Edith Fay, owner; Frank Kinne, barber.

Truckee Shoe Shop, Jerry Zunino; F. H. Brummond, Chevrolet dealer; A. M. Holmes, county coroner; Truckee Soda Works, W. M. Englehart; Truckee Garage, Tony Chirard; Railway Express Agency, N. F. Dolley; Goodfellow's Cafe, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Shattuck; Truckee-Tahoe Lumber Co., Charles Carrau; Donner Garage, M. B. Jones; Lloyd's Variety Store; Loynd's Truckee Drug, Walt and E. L. Loynd; Rossarini's, Katherine Rossarini; Truckee Public Utility District, C. Edmunds, manager; Donner Hotel, Pete Zazzari and Family.

It is also interesting to note the number of new businesses in the community which have been established during the 30 years. From a small mountain village, the area has grown to city-size and become a major force in the economy and progress of the county and much of this progress must be credited to the businesses and individuals listed above, each of whom contributed to our growth and development.

Z'berg Still Seeing Apparitions

Californians can expect to see San Francisco Bay filled with highrise apartments and industrial developments and Lake Tahoe reduced to just an algae receptacle unless they wake up to the dangers of losing these and other natural resources.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, of Sacramento, consistent campaigner for conservation, sounded the warning in a talk to the Woodland Rotary Club.

CHANGE NOTED
The 9th District assemblyman called what is happening at Lake Tahoe a classic example of how "a wonderful natural resource is being destroyed by man." The lake is changing from "crystal clear to an algae green," he said.

"Man has dumped all his leavings in the lake," The assemblyman reported plans call for a six-lane freeway along the west side of the lake. This, he pointed out, would connect the north and south ends of the lake and "that is what the gamblers want."

BAY PLANS
The assemblyman reported private developers plan to fill in most of San Francisco Bay. He explained all the land under the water is owned by private interests. The land was sold many years ago by the state for $1 an acre in 160-acre parcels. Except for the ship channel, most of the bay is 14 feet deep or less.

I have watched in rapt wonder and frank admiration over the past ten years at the energy and foresight of this man. He has had a dream of not only making Squaw Valley the greatest ski area in the world but also a place that all people of all ages can enjoy the year around.

He must have felt very proud last Wednesday, December 18, to see another part of that dream come true.

Dignitaries and representatives of the press, television, and radio — as well as Bertha the well known elephant and her baby, Tina — gathered at the entrance of the new tram for its dedication.

After the visitors had taken a round trip on this, the safest and most thrilling ride you can imagine, I took a tour of the terminal building at the base of the tramway. It's impossible to say how impressive this building is, with loading platforms, modern ski shop, and several other stores to serve the riders. I think this man has done a tremendous job. The new tram is a definite asset to the entire north shore area. Thank you, Mr. Alex Cushing, for bringing it to us.

Washoe Commissioners Approve Big Incline development While Conservation Groups Continue To Voice Objections

Washoe County commissioners have granted a special use permit for construction of a 486 unit cluster development at Incline Village on Lake Tahoe's north shore.

In clearing the way for the subdivision, the commission accepted the suggestion of Don C. Marek, vice president and project manager of Incline Village, Inc., to leave erosion control standards to later agreement between the developer and the county engineer. The vote on the special use permit was 4-1 with chairman Howard F.

McKissick Sr. the lone dissenter.

Incline Village's Unit No. 2 had been approved once before by the commission before Marek asked for its return to the Regional Planning Commission for refinement of the plan. The developing firm is a wholly owned subsidiary of Boise Cascade Corp.

Witnesses at the three-hour public hearing last week consisted almost entirely of opponents to the application. Most appealed for a delay until the bi-state compact to prevent pollution and control development in the lake basin wins the consent of Congress and becomes operative, or at least until the Nevada Legislature creates a control agency on the Nevada side of Tahoe.

Marek agreed to all 19 conditions attached to the use permit by the Regional Planning Commission, with exception of one which would have required expenditure of a minimum of $200 per development lot for reforestation. "We" rather wait until the cuts have been made and we can see what needs to be done," he said.

This would have required expenditure of a minimum of $100,000 for erosion control, Marek said.

Among organizations calling for a delay were the League to Save Lake Tahoe, the Lake Tahoe Park Committee, the League of Women Voters and the Lake Tahoe Area Council.

Sierra Skiing

VI and CARSON WHITE
Dear Santa:

You have always been good to skiers in this Tahoe area, using your influence with Ullar and the weather man; covering our slopes with the finest snow blanket; and helping this area to become the greatest recreational wintersports area in the world. Just a few favors to ask of you on your trip down here:

Please drop by Soda Springs and give Sherm Reams a new snow shovel. He's getting a spot on his belly and needs the exercise. Boreal Ridge is on your way, so don't be alarmed at the lights and skiers skiing at night. It's new this year. Bob Harris would like some flares to find his ski school if the lights fail. Jay Price will buy you a drink if he can get his bartender, Brian Storm on the ball. Our greetings to genial Bill Thorpe and Bud Zorich too.

Sugar Bowl is your old bailiwick, so don't hot-toddy it too long with Don Schwartz, Alex Brogle, Toni Marth and Bill Klein, or Bill Caldwell 'cause you've got lots of stops ahead. Remember that Karen is married to Norm Saylor at Donner Ski Area and he gets jealous fits if he catches anyone kiss'n his bride.

If you see lots of skiers carrying torches down the old Donner Summit road, it is an old tradition. They are skiing down to a party at Donner Lake Lodge, with Harold Wilson Pausing, so join the party, but not too long. (Dec. 28) You've got to drop some customers off at George's Drive-in and pick up a snack yourself. Make a pit stop at Lomax's Richfield station before heading south to Squaw Valley.

Better direct your lead deer Rudolph not to skim too low. Wires are stretching everywhere. Alex Cushing has a new sky tram that is the largest in the world and could be your downfall. Joyce Weeks can fix you up with the addresses of John Buchman, Dec Daley, Stan Tomlinson and Rut Barclay. Hostesses Betty Walsh and Dorthea Polmagaski are cut trick, but remember Mrs. Santa back in your own pad.

Stop at Olympic Village for a warm at Bill Pansen's fireplace and check the room full of trophies at Wayne Poulsen's place. You might try one of those new fangled skidoos and modernize your old equipment. Nick, Tim Smith sells them in Truckee. Better check with Dave Mohla of the Forest Service first, though. Might be a regulation against it, even for you.

Over the hill is Alpine Meadows and Alan Ewen the new manager will welcome you with open arms. Skimeister Werner Schuster, Jim Schutt, Norm Wilson, Ray Huston and Margaret Birmingham will be busy counting money in the new building, but they will drop everything to make you welcome as theirs is a very friendly resort. Don't be disturbed if you see Gardner Mein playing tennis at the Powder Bowl next to the River Ranch in his bathing suit. He likes to shock everyone.

At Granlibakken, have a snort with Kjell Rustad and he will sing you a bawdy parody that will make your whiskers curl. Karl Ketten hoffen has some cheese fondue waiting for you at Tahoe Ski Bowl and Don Kast will give you a night ski lesson at Homewood. Better have a glass of mil at Sunnyside with Supervisor Bill Briner before heading for Incline. You know Wes Howell will load your jug while Chapple Wentworth flacks you with all the sundry detail about how great Ski Incline is. Don't let Luggi Foegger take you in the ice house where the snow-making machine is, he will probably sell it to you. Jack Gross will let you ride the lift in exchange for a new bull wheel. Chris Kuraisa deserves a nice present for all the work he does teaching the kiddies there.

I think Dennis Hogan hangs his hat at Mt Rose and Stefan Kaelin is ski school director this year, so give'em some encouragement and get your mug filled too. Just up the hill is Slide Mountain where Peter Brinkman is bossman. He will like to hitch a ride with you over to Heavenly Valley where he still owns the Christiana at the base of the slope.

Fred Corfee, former Cal Ski Team Captain and co-owner Hugh Kilebrew will give you a season pass worth $150 to Heavenly and a breathtaking view of Lake Tahoe. Pepl Greimelster will try to lead you astray into Nevada, but stay with Fred, who never gambles, and save your kopeks.

Vern and Bobby Sprock will have a hot buttered rum you will need when you get to the Sierra Ski Ranch at Echo Summit. They will be proud to show you their new day lodge and new hill. Dancer and Prancer can do a polka or a schottisch with Bobby by the huge fireplace.

Well, Santa, I know you have a large territory like Congressman Bizz Johnson, so we don't want you to load up too much in our special Lake Tahoe area. I thank you for your help in spreading cheer to our friends. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Incline Asks $1 Million For Sewers

Directors of the Incline Village General Improvement District have approved an application for $1,120,812 in Public Law 660 grants for completion of its $3.4 million sewage plant expansion and treated sewage export program.

Wally White, district manager said the next step in the planned export program is to proceed with right-of-way acquisition.

White said the PL660 application was for a $665,841 grant for the export system to Washoe Valley, which will cost $2,017,700 and a $454,971 grant for the sewage treatment plant expansion. The plant expansion would add 2.8 million gallons per day capacity to the existing plant, bringing the total capacity to 3.5 million gallons per day. The federal grants would pay for one third of the project.

The board authorized White to proceed with acquisition of right-of-way as representative of the district. New rates for the district's users will become effective Jan. 1 and be reflected in February billing, White said.

Stampede 60 Per Cent Complete, Work Halts For Winter

Following a year of peak activity in building Stampede Dam during which construction has passed the halfway mark, work has come to a halt.

The dam, which will rise to 233 feet and be 1,520 feet long at its crest, is now 119 feet above the streambed. It is 60 per cent complete. It is located northeast of Truckee on the Little Truckee River some six miles upstream from Boca Reservoir. It is estimated that the entire project is three quarters finished and on schedule for completion by February, 1970. Project Construction Engineer

Jack Carter of the Bureau of Reclamation office at Carson City, told the Sierra Sun that even the grouting, which continued into this month, had to be stopped because of bad weather. He said engineers will review the situation after the first of the year to see if there is any chance of continuing this operation.

Grouting is the sealing of the rock mass under the dam and abutment areas. It is done by forcing a mixture of concrete and water into the voids to reinforce the foundation and prevent damaging seepage.

Carter estimates that further construction other than grouting cannot resume until spring probably not before May 1 if we have a normal winter. Carter did say, however, work can resume as soon as snow level is low enough for equipment to clear the roads.

Stampede Dam is designed not only to provide flood control protection for downstream areas along the Truckee River but also to improve the fishery, provide domestic and industrial water supplies and to make available new recreation sites.

The dam will create a reservoir with a capacity of 225,000 acre feet of water and provide 25 miles of shoreline. Its water surface will be approximately five and a half square miles.

H. Smith Richards, Bureau of Reclamation, Carson City office project manager, said that even at its present stage, the dam with its uncontrolled reservoir outlet tunnel, could give some measure of flood protection.

"Should storms during the coming winter cause exceptionally heavy runoff, these works would cause a dampening effect on peak flows on the Little Truckee River to reduce peak flows downstream," he said.

The project, being built under a joint venture contract to Ray Kiser and R. A. Heintz construction companies of Redding, Calif., is expected to be completed next year by late summer or early fall.

Still to be done are the dam embankment, as access road, installation of water control equipment in the tunnel outlet and county road relocations over the dam.

Completed during this last season's construction period were the spillway, and earthfill saddle dam and the outlet works tunnel.

Assisting Carter, who is supervising dam construction for the Bureau of Reclamation, are Robert R. Robison, field engineer and Fred J. Lasko, chief inspector and safety engineer.

Ski Conditions Great At All Resort Areas

By CARSON WHITE

An impressive torchlight parade down Exhibition slope at Squaw Valley Christmas Eve will herald one of the best holiday ski openings in many years. Snow conditions vary from good to excellent at all resorts.

Cold weather has preserved ideal powder snow conditions with temperatures reaching as low as 15 degrees below zero at times. All ski spas boast at least 36 inches with 8 to 12 inches of powder.

Squaw closes its regional alpine junior training camp for the finest ski racers in the west today. Expert instruction and spartan training has enabled many of the thirty young stars to improve into national and international class aces. Vicky Jones and Robbin Morning assumed the rolls of instructors and according to Fraser West, did very well.

Dodge Ridge has scheduled its annual Christmas Vacation Racing Camp December 26 through the 31st under the direction of Ray Patton, Assistant will be Henry Hamilton and Otto Sarlo for the juniors.

Non-Skier oriented visitors for the holidays may enjoy visiting the ice skating rink at Squaw Valley, renting a skimo-bike at Truckee, or fishing in Lake Tahoe where the big ones are biting right now.

Continuing Protection For Emerald

U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall last October declared Emerald Bay at Lake Tahoe a national landmark.

So, last week, Gov. Ronald Reagan agreed that California would continue to protect and use the site for purposes consistent with preservation of its natural integrity.

And he forwarded to Udall an official request for the bronze plaque and certificate formally designating Emerald Bay as a National Landmark.

Reagan said California was "deeply honored" by the recognition granted the 25,000-acre landmark area, and added that he felt "a high responsibility to the nation" for the preservation of its natural integrity.

The landmark area comprises Emerald Bay and its surrounding basin, including the Emerald Bay and D. L. Bliss State Parks.

Truckee Man Pleads Guilty

Charles Edward Hackwith, 36, of Truckee was sentenced in Nevada City by Superior Court Judge Vernon Stoll to state prison for armed robbery and grand theft.

Hackwith, who allegedly stole a pistol and later robbed a taxicab driver in the Truckee area, earlier pleaded guilty to both charges.

Heavy Reservations Seen For State Parks In 1969

Choice dates and camping spots may go quickly when 1969 reservations become available for most state park campgrounds on January 1, state parks director William Penn Mott Jr. predicted today.

Reservation forms are now available from state park system units and at state office buildings in major cities throughout California. Forms and information may also be obtained by writing the State Department of Parks and Recreation, P. O. Box 2390, Sacramento 95811. In Los Angeles area, forms may be obtained from the State Department of Parks and Recreation, 14233 Sunset Boulevard, Pacific Palisades 90272, telephone 454-7323.

To make reservations, campers should submit the full camping fee plus $1 reservation charge at the time of the application.

The parks will accept mailed applications starting January 1.

Reservations may not be made in person at the parks until after February 28, Mott noted. This is to give equal opportunity to all applicants, no matter how far they live from the park where they wish to camp.

Mott urged campers to mail in the forms as early as possible, to insure availability of space on their preferred dates. Last year one park had all its Easter week camp spots reserved by January 7, and key weekends and popular vacation times were heavily in demand at many parks.

Over 50,000 reservations were made last year, when the program was begun experimentally to help solve the turnaway problem. At Southern California beaches turnaways had been particularly acute, with campers often waiting vainly in line for long periods in hope of a vacancy.

Reaction to the new reservation system was overwhelmingly favorable, Mott said, and

Mt. Rose Ski Area Now Open

Mt. Rose Ski Area is open for the 1968-1969 ski season with "the finest powder pack" on its Northwest Passage, Kit Carson, the newly opened Sunset bowl and Ponderosa runs. The area has an 8,200-foot base elevation.

Holiday visitors will find new additional facilities at the base lodge including a coffee shop. Two double chair lifts and the Alphon 7-Bar will again service skiers. The new management is planning further lift facilities and overnight lodging to be completed by next summer.

ROOSTER TAILS AT SUGAR BOWL - A proficient slat artist carves his way through deep powder at Sugar Bowl high up in the Sierra near Donner Summit on Old Highway 40; area annually receives more snow (477 inches) than any other major resort in the northern Sierra.

Sides Form For Sewage Battle In Washoe

Militant opponents have vowed to organize at a meeting Jan. 15 to fight the export of sewage effluent from Incline Village on Lake Tahoe's north shore into Washoe Valley south of Reno.

That decision was made last week at a meeting in the club Jubilee attended by about 150 property owners in the area who want no part of waste water from the Lake Tahoe Basin.

The decision to meet next month at the same place to form the Antieffluent Association came after a long time opponent of south shore effluent described waste water which has been introduced to Carson Valley.

Fritz H. Ruppel of Genoa said effluent dumped into Daggett-Creek from the Douglas County sewage plant at Round Hill is unacceptable despite claims by state health authorities it meets Nevada standards.

He urged property owners to profit by the mistakes made by the Carson River Protective Association, which he helped form to keep the south shore effluent out of Carson Valley, to keep waste water from the north shore out of Washoe valley and along the Steamboat Creek drainage all the way to the

Carols By Candlelight

A traditional "Carols by Candlelight" service will be held Tuesday, Dec. 24 at 8 p.m. in the Truckee United Methodist Church.

The special service will include the reading of the Christmas narrative by various people of the community and the congregational singing of traditional carols.

A special feature will be a sound color film "Holy Night," a production of Cathedral Films, Inc.

Church members extend an invitation to all people of the community to attend.

Truckee River east of Sparks. Dr. Richard Miller, a University of Nevada professor who long has opposed residential and commercial development in the Tahoe Basin as well as effluent pumped over the eastern rim of the lake basin into Nevada, warned no one can predict what will happen to Washoe Lake in the future if the effluent is introduced to it.

"Tahoe has been poor for fishery production," he said. "We hope it always will be," he added, explaining there is more fish food in water which has been fertilized than in water which is pure.

"We are concerned about preserving the conditions that are livable for us. We want it as well on this side of the mountains as in the Tahoe Basin," Miller said.

Roy Pagni, one of the owners of the Jubilee, expressed particular concern about wells in Washoe and Pleasant Valleys. He said shallow wells could be contaminated quickly and "ours is only 60 feet."

Squaw Valley Cable Car Away On Schedule

LEAVING THE TERMINAL — Very first car to start up the mountain carrying a passenger load left the lower terminal last Wednesday, bearing members of the press, television cameras, and local dignitaries in the inaugural trip of the Squaw Valley cable car; regular full time service for skiers and sightseers commenced Friday. —Sun Photo

MEETING IN THE MIDDLE — The cars pass at the halfway point along the 7,000-foot length of the cables between towers one and two; backdrop is magnificent panorama of the Lake Tahoe basin; trackropes on which cars ride weigh 9.5 pounds per foot and have a breaking strength of 283 metric tons. —Sun Photo

SWISS CONSULTANT — Hans Burkhardt explains workings of complex machinery down in the engine room of the main terminal building adjacent to Squaw Valley Lodge; huge drive wheel behind Burkhardt is one of pair that wind cable electrically to lift and lower the two cars over a 7,000-foot run that rises 2,000 feet above the valley. —Sun Photo ardson & Abbott, of Boston, and I mention that only to indicate that lawyers are not the only ones.

Coming back down the mountain is a little more thrilling than going up, particularly as the car whooshes over that last tower and plunges downward into the valley. Fritz Briner swears I got pale and trembly at that exciting moment, but I was so busy trying to take pictures over Gary Henry's pointy hat that I really wasn't thinking about anything else. Really I wasn't, Fritz. The ride on final approach over the meadow into Tahoe Valley Airport on a choppy day is infinitely more charming than a tramway ride and I usually come through that with tummy intact. Sweaty palms, to be sure, but tummy intact. Maybe it was all those Paiute Mai-Tai's.

Henry Loehr Will Be Long Remembered Down In Nevada City

By JOE BIGHAM
Editor, Grass Valley Union
(Special to the Sierra Sun)
Conducting Nevada county's business was a little easier in 1944 when Henry Loehr first became a member of the board of supervisors.
In fact, with little actual work to do, the board members often had time to indulge in a little game of chance.
"When the board got its work done, they used to lag dollars against the wall," Loehr recalls today. "That was the kind of operation it was."

That kind of operation is long gone from Nevada county supervisor meetings. Not only do today's supervisors avoid lagging dollars against the wall, they manage to devote the entire morning (and sometimes the afternoon) every Tuesday to working on county business.
Twenty four years ago, Nevada county government was more noted for its lack of direction from the elected supervisors than anything else, the way Loehr tells it.

"When I first came on the board, the clerk was old R. N. McCormack," Loehr says. "He was Mr. Nevada County. The members of the board of supervisors didn't have one lousy word to say. They were kind of rubber stamps."

Loehr was sort of the "young Turk" of his time and felt those responsible for running the county then "didn't want any advancement or any change of any kind."

The public wasn't exactly encouraged to participate either, he recalls.

"We met once a month. No one came before the board (because) no one was ever invited. The public wasn't supposed to be there."

Loehr subsequently became chairman of the board, a post he held for several years. Through a process of attrition, the laissez-faire board members were replaced and the board began to become more active.

"I was able to get things done for my area (Truckee) that were unheard of in the past," Loehr recalls. He told how he helped push for the hospital district that has evolved into Tahoe Forest Hospital. At one point, lack of money threatened the project, so "I prevailed on the board. The county had $50,000 to $60,000 in matching money available, but no way of matching it. So I got it assigned to the hospital district. It gave them enough."

Loehr also notes that when he first entered county government, "Truckee had no paved roads; now every street is paved."

He mentioned the attempt to expand county offices as one of the big efforts of his career.

"It took a great deal of doing; the whole community was against us. They felt disenfranchised because we lease-purchase the annex instead of seeking approval for bonds," Loehr defends that approach, saying bonds would have been defeated, but the need for an annex would have continued and costs would have risen seven to eight per cent each year during any delay. "You can see the mess we're still in," he said. "We need space again."

The veteran supervisor feels the operation of county government has become more efficient gradually during his six terms. "All the time I've been here, there has been an endeavor to pull the county up by the bootstraps little by little. It takes time."

Loehr noted that at the beginning "every guy was for his own neighborhood. That's changed. The supervisors look at problems now as an entire unit instead of five separate units."

With his retirement from county government nearing, Loehr closed:

"It's been a liberal education over the years. I've been happy with this job. Cooperation of the other members eased my life a bit."

North Lake Tahoe Chamber Pot-Shots:

By BETTY LAYTON
Winter Carnival Week will feature movies of the various ski resorts in the area which will be shown at the Squaw Valley and Kings Beach Theaters in between their regular features all eleven days.

Alpine Meadows has a new movie which shows their family-fun skiing. It has some good shots of their winning dog sled team which they sponsored (Lee Fishback with his team of twelve beautiful Siberian Huskies), and also Art Linletter officiating over his Family Slalom Day Races which are part of Winter Carnival Week (January 26) this year.

Boreal Ridge has a new short length movie, but since it was filmed they have their night lighting which makes night in to day and continuous skiing from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Mt. Rose will have their movie on skiing on their tough Northwest Passage and on their long beginners slopes.

Homewood Ski Area's film features Ron Rupp skiing hundreds of miles of ski slopes with tantalizing background music. Homewood too has night skiing on weekends.

Special "Learn to Ski" bargains are offered during Winter Carnival Week (which happens to be National Ski Week too). Tahoe Ski Bowl and Boreal Ridge offer free lessons and equipment to the very beginner skier between 10 and 12 mid-week of that particular week.

Already there are twelve dog sled teams entered for the races the 25th and 26th of January, but they need sponsors! It's a bargain this year. Anyone can sponsor a team and take out an ad in our program at the same time. The program will be distributed at all three major events. (Snowball, Dog Sled Races and Snowmobile Races). $1500 has to be raised for cash prizes for the mushers which will have the Squaw Valley meadows as their racing site this year. The gay blue booster Winter Carnival button, featuring the dog driving the snowmobile, will be the required admission to the Snowmobile and Dog Sled Races and are already being sold for one dollar.

The response to sponsoring a queen in our "Miss Sierra Snowflake" Beauty Contest this year has been overwhelming. Community-minded organizations so far who will sponsor a girl are: Lions Club of Truckee, North Tahoe Lions Club, Tahoe Squaws, North Tahoe Women's Club, Junior North Tahoe Women's Club, Soroptimist Club, Tahoe Sierra Board of Realtors, North Tahoe Rotary Club, Tahoe City Rotary Club and Incline Village Realty. There are other sponsors expected to bring the total participants to fourteen.

One of the most hilarious events of the Winter Carnival

Week will be the Saloon Slalom. Last year entries from many chophouses in the Bay Area journeyed to Squaw Valley to vie for the title of Top Beanery Skiers. This year more entries are expected and already teams are being formed for their all-out performance for their employer.

A new gastronomic event this year will be the "Clambake" offered by the California Alumni Lodge. With the price of the real old-fashioned clam piece de resistance, there will be free beer and dancing. This will be Tuesday the 21st of January—all part of the Winter Carnival Events.

A big welcome to our new chamber members: Lucky Stores, Inc., Tahoe City; Le Chamois, Squaw Valley; Incline Village Golf Course and The Chataux in Incline Village; and the Sitz-Mark, Private Inns, of San Francisco.

All of Santa's helpers join in adding a note of good cheer for this holiday season. Merry Christmas, everyone! We appreciate your patronage.

West Shore Notes

By Ellen Attardi
Best wishes to Mrs. Grace Gehlert and Earl Davies, both former North Tahoe residents, who were married in Reno two weeks ago. The Davies' are making their new home in Sparks.

The Ric Giannini's entertained friends at a pre-holiday cocktail party at their Highlands home last Friday evening.

Mrs. Angie Bonino and children of Orangevale were Tahoe visitors last weekend. They came up to attend the "Big Tree" and to get away from the snow in Orangevale.

Spending the holidays with Moe and Phyllis Gardner and children at their Tahoe Tavern Heights home are Phyllis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Smith of San Marino.

Merry, merry Christmas to Mr. and Mrs. Red Anderson in Hemet.

Jean Holley was hostess to a group of friends at a bridge luncheon at her Dollar Point home last Thursday. Winning high playing honors of the day were Barbara Spitsen and Rosemary Lindsey.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Buck Strahm at their Comstock Acres home is son Bob who is a student at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Married last Monday at a lovely afternoon ceremony at the United Church of Christ in Squaw Valley were Corrine Schryer of Incline Village and Nick Francovich of Lake Forest. Both young people are June graduates of Tahoe Truckee High School. Officiating at the double wedding ring ceremony was Reverend Allen Blume.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Stier of Incline Village, was given in marriage by her father and was radiant in a floor length gown of traditional white, bodiced with lace. She wore a shoulder length head piece of net and carried a bouquet of traditional white flowers. Attending the bride were Adrian Huckle of Incline Village and the sister of the bride, Peggy Schryer. They were dressed in identical gowns of velvet in shades of pink and burgundy.

The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jac Francovich of Lake Forest, was attended by Mike Pelletier and Eric Henrikson, both of Lake Forest. Acting as ushers were Roland Schryer, brother of the bride, and Kris Francovich, brother of the groom.

A champagne reception honoring the young couple was held immediately following the ceremony at Bacchi's Inn in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Francovich are making their home in Tahoe City.

University of Pacific freshman Ann Starratt is vacationing with her parents, Jack and Betty Starratt, at their Tahoe City home. Ann also plans on spending part of her vacation visiting friends in Los Angeles.

Jack and Jean Holley were hosts at a pot luck dinner party for members and friends of the United Church of Squaw Valley and the party was held at their Dollar Point home last Sunday evening. The group much enjoyed the holiday songs and the Christmas story-telling of Mrs. Marjorie MacNeur.

Mt. Rose Open And 'Good'

Officials at Slide Mountain Ski Resort on the Mount Rose Road have announced the resort is now open daily. With 28 to 48 inches of packed powder snow, ski conditions are termed "generally good."

The resort is open to the public on week days from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. On weekends, hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Officials say new hill-grooming equipment has put the lower slopes in top condition. Temperatures from 0 to 25 degrees have kept the snow powdery and prevented icing.

Slide Ski School Director Pete Brinkman said a teaching clinic last weekend gathered instructors and other interested persons.

One FWSA Race Cancelled, Another Changed

The Far West Ski Association has announced that the Mr. Reba Cup Races scheduled for Bear Valley January 11 and 12 have been cancelled. Rescheduled ing of another race was also reported, the Lyder Barnes Race at Mr. Rose being moved from its previously scheduled date to January 26.

the picture, also helped on the project. Depicted are, not only Snoopy, but the Red Baron, Charlie Brown, Linus and his blanket and the inevitable Lucy. The artists are students in John Stever's sixth grade at Truckee Elementary School. —Sun Photo

"HERE WE COME A-CAROLING" - Such was the title of the Christmas program given last week at Incline School where Mrs. Russell's first grade students presented "The Little Drummer Boy." Their instruments were holiday decorated coffee cans and sticks. The presentation included grade, junior and high school students.

Other participating in the Incline Schools holiday gala were songs and dances by second, fourth, fifth and sixth graders.

Piano solos were played by Jeff Grover, Bobby Bader-tschler and Linda Rogers, all sixth grade students.

Tari Hume, high school senior presented "The Little Match Girl" while Charles Uhrig, sophomore, gave "Is There a Santa Claus?" and Sue Wyland, sophomore read "The True Meaning of Christmas."

Bob Carroll was the announcer for "Winter Wonderland" and Kendal Cromwell was announcer for "White Christmas."

AAA Urges Extra Caution Now

Bad weather, added at a time of holiday rush and excitement, magnifies the ordinary pedestrian traffic dangers to enormous proportions. The California State Automobile Association urges all pedestrians and drivers to put special emphasis on being alert in traffic at this time of year.

It is always tempting for pedestrians to disregard safety when it is raining, sleeting or snowing as they hurry to complete their business and get to the comfort of their homes. However, this is the worst possible time to be careless. Decreased visibility and reduced vehicle control due to bad weather are critical problems to drivers, while pedestrians are coping with slippery streets and sidewalks. Make sure your children observe all safety measures during the bad weather season — set the example for them by your own careful actions.

Camping Boom

Our current camping "explosion" skyrockets the sharing of outdoor adventures by countless American families, oftentimes in very crowded conditions.

But Californians have it good, for their state boasts substantially more campgrounds and individual campsites than any other state. Total number of campsites here, both public and private, are reported by National Automobile Club to be 43,788.

New York State holds second place, with 29,927 campsites. Some seven states, however, have fewer than 2,000 campsites each, with Hawaii, for instance, offering a selection of only 140 such sites.

Though a rapid increase in the number of privately owned and operated camping facilities helps meet the needs of this "explosion," new public facilities prove fewer and farther between.

REAL LIVE TREES — Kindergartners John Keating and Marilee Brodie, from left, sing "Oh Christmas Tree" against a three dimensional backdrop depicting Tahoe Lake School "Mountain Christmas" program. Mrs. Lillian Farr designed and painted the backdrop. Program was presented last Wednesday. A special feature was a presentation of "Hymn of the Sierra", words of which were written by Mrs. Farr's mother, Mrs. Ethel Joslin. Music was written by former Tahoe Truckee High School teacher Mr. Pringle. Other program features were songs, a rhythm band, a musical play, readings and the sixth, seventh and eighth grade chorus under the direction of David Smythe.

Franchise Tax Rate Is Set

SACRAMENTO — The franchise tax rate for California banks and financial institutions was set at 11 per cent after a public hearing conducted by the State Franchise Tax Board, according to Houston I. Flournoy, state controller and chairman of the board.

The bank and financial institution franchise tax rate is set each year by the board. The rate consists of a 7 per cent tax on net income plus an additional tax based on the ratio of personal property taxes to total income of all California corporations other than financials and institutions.

This year's computed rate was in excess of 4 per cent, according to the calculations of the department staff. The rate was set at 11 per cent however, because this is the maximum rate provided by law.

The 11 per cent rate applies to all banks and financial institutions which report income on a calendar year basis. Banks pay franchise taxes in lieu of personal property taxes from which they are exempt.

Gifts Sent To Weimar Hospital

SACRAMENTO — Gifts for TB and geriatric patients at Weimar Medical Center were delivered last week, according to Edward Hollingshead, chairman of Patient Service Committee of the Sacramento — Emigrant Trails TB and Health Association.

The presents, from tuberculosis associations in counties sending patients to Weimar, provide the basis for a happy holiday spirit for patients restricted from the usual joys and gay festivities of their home, Hollingshead said.

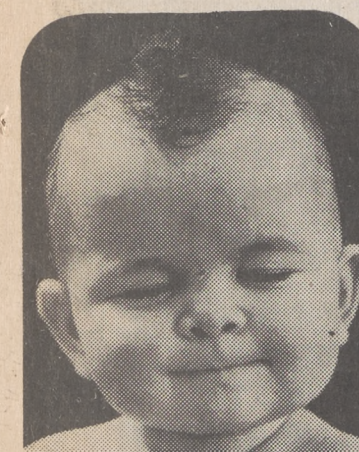

Christmas trees donated by the Nevada County Sheriff's office are being placed in each ward in preparation of Santa's visit on the evening of Dec. 24. Presents were donated by the Tuberculosis and Health Association of Sacramento — Emigrant Trails and many other clubs and organizations.

Veterans Club To Visit GI's

SACRAMENTO — Members of the American River College Veterans Club will visit Letterman Army Hospital Dec. 27 to talk with hospitalized servicemen and give them some insight into the problems and opportunities awaiting the veteran upon release from service.

Although many groups have given musical and dramatic performances at the hospital, few veterans groups have called to give the hospitalized servicemen realistic information about what things are like once the G.I. leaves the service. The hospital reports that there is a great need for this kind of informal visit.

The American River College Veterans Club will be bringing gifts to the servicemen. Some of the items needed include stationery, ball point pens, playing cards, shaving accessories (blades, lotion) and records (33 and 45 rpm).

Federal Grant Sought For Wastewater Study

Lake Tahoe Area Council has submitted an application to the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration in the amount of $25,001 for a demonstration project grant to determine the effects of the South Tahoe Public Utility District Wastewater Reclamation Plant on the Indian Creek Reservoir.

Assessment of existing conditions and monitoring changes that occur in the reservoir will provide another step toward evaluating tertiary treatment processes. This program would be an extension of the study now in progress covering eutrophication of Lake Tahoe which

Peephole Drivers

Seeing is believing. But sometimes, according to James C. Bailey, Director, Department of Motor Vehicles, he has trouble believing what he sees: Peephole drivers peering through only a small cleared area of their windshields.

the Lake Tahoe Area Council has sponsored under the supervision of its board of consultants headed by Prof. P. H. McGahey of the University of California.

The application states the need for evaluation of the effects of sewage effluents on algal growth in lakes and streams. It will present a unique opportunity to determine the effect of an effluent which has undergone as high a degree of treatment as present technology permits in the removal of phosphorus, nitrogen and organic material on a reservoir which is relatively well controlled. This will be analyzed and correlated with past analyses obtained at the LTAC laboratory at Tahoe City.

This project will also provide for basic information on the general effects of man-induced eutrophication on a body of water and describe the capability of the reservoir to serve for fishing and boating recreation.

Ski Season Under Way At Boreal

Boreal Ridge launched its 1968-69 season last week and the heavy snow storm over the weekend guarantees a smooth ski business from now on, officials report.

All indications point to a record breaking season. The Christmas holidays were assured of great skiing when 1-1/2 feet of new powder fell on the Interstate 80 summit and Boreal Ridge.

All lifts were operating at the present time. Night skiing began last Thursday. The 60,000 watt lighting system has been adjusted to create optimum light distribution on the T-bar and Green chairlift slopes.

Boreal Ridge's night skiing operation is the first of its kind in Northern California and is rated with the most modern in the United States.

The California Ski Teachers Clinic was brought to a close Sunday. The majority of the student instructors were hired as weekend teachers by the Alpine Junior Skiers program in Sacramento and other similar organizations.

Hill Manager Jim Adams and his crew worked overtime to assure not only well-groomed slopes for the coming holidays, but also to establish a solid base for a long successful season.

Skymark Adds New Aircraft

SACRAMENTO — Dr. Alvin Marks, president of Skymark Airlines here, has announced that the Sacramento-based commuter airline has purchased a Beech 99 airliner.

Dr. Marks said that Skymark has also taken an option on the purchase of two more Beech 99's.

The Beech 99, manufactured by Beech Aircraft in Wichita, Kan., is a 15-passenger commuter airliner with a cruising speed of 250 miles per hour. The Beech 99 is powered by twin turbine Pratt & Whitney PT6A-20 engines and has retractable landing gear.

Dr. Marks said that the aircraft will be placed in regular service on Skymark's Sacramento — Fresno — Bakersfield route in January.

"NEITHER WIND NOR RAIN" NOR SNOW — They may not be postmen, but construction workers at the new high-rise addition to Cal Neva Club at Crystal Bay aren't stopping for anything. "We haven't time," says the Brunzell Construction boss, Concrete foundations are rapidly being completed. Huge blankets of plastic cover the poured cement — covered in turn by snow. Spring completion date is still the target so the addition can open at the same time as the present club and buildings on June 1. — Sun Photo

FUN AT INCLINE — Mrs. Guy (Gloria) Michaels, takes Incline's two mascots out for some fun in the snow. Spotted Sydney, a 9-month-old jaguar from South America and Lioness Nimba, a 6-month-old African lion, enjoyed the snow though lions seldom see it. The two cats were put on the chairlift for a ride up Ski Incline's main lift with Manager Luggi Foeger, but the height from the ground terrified them and they bailed out. Guy and Gloria, formerly of the Christmas Tree, operate the Tahoe Racquet Club restaurant at Incline. Gloria has long been known for her exotic pets.

SKATING STAR — Marie Langenbein, a German skating star, is a newcomer to the 24th edition of Holiday on Ice. The skating spectacular will be at the Oakland-Alameda Coliseum from Christmas Day through Tuesday Dec. 31.

NAIDA AND NANO — The Naida and Nano trio open Monday night at North Lake Tahoe's Nevada Lodge. The trio has played the Lodge before to rave reviews and is acclaimed for the unique island flavor it breathes into both Hawaiian and Mainland tunes. The Naida and Nano Trio will appear nightly in Nevada Lodge's Topaz Room through Jan. 19.

Community Volunteers Seek Jobs For Elderly

SACRAMENTO — Can volunteers from the community, working with employment professionals in a neighborhood environment, find and develop job opportunities for older workers over and above those generally listed with the state employment service?

The results of a recent experimental project in the Sacramento area suggest that such community involvement by volunteers, "in the best spirit of the creative society," as Director of Employment Peter Weinberger describes it, can be successful.

An auxiliary employment service office in the suburb of Carmichael just outside Sacramento attracted 500 job applicants in the 45-64 age group to fill 626 job openings, and 200 placements were made.

A volunteer-staffed office in the suburb of North Sacramento, serving the 65-and-over applicant, attracted 63 applicants to 100 job openings, and 20 were placed.

The projects were under the direct supervision of Georgia McKenna of the Sacramento Employment Service office.

In the two Sacramento-area projects, as in similar projects in Louisville, Kentucky, the volunteers, under supervision of a professional employment service staff member, performed the more elementary functions of recruitment, application taking, selection, referral and job development and placement, receiving only expense money for their services.

The projects were funded by the federal government through the U.S. Employment Service in the Bureau of Employment Security, U. S. Department of Labor.

Analysis of results of the Sacramento and Louisville projects indicates that about 75 per cent of the job opportunities for each project's applicants came from employers who had not used the Employment service for a year or more. More than 40 per cent of the applicants were placed. Despite the fact that these were hard-to-place applicants, 75 per cent of the placements were in jobs paying the going rate or higher for that occupation.

The purpose in establishing the volunteer-staffed neighborhood older worker demonstration project centers, according to Weinberger, was to see if such centers increase accessibility of services to older workers and if the services of the department are expanded through the use of volunteers.

Most of the volunteers staffing the experimental project were women, and the most eager and enthusiastic came from applicant files of the California State Employment Service.

Such willingness to serve and help others find jobs paid off for many of the volunteers themselves, according to Weinberger.

He cited the case of one volunteer who had been out of the job market for 22 years, and had offered her services as a volunteer in the experiment pending a sharpening of her own dormant clerical skills.

Within a month of this refresher training as a volunteer she herself was able to obtain a permanent clerical position, necessitated by the considerable reduction in her husband's income following an aerospace-industry layoff.

Weinberger said that the success of the Sacramento and Kentucky projects was sufficient to warrant establishment by the Department of Labor of similar service activities in other cities throughout the nation, and older worker needs in various cities are being studied to determine locations for the projects.
